Here you can find academic skills development programs for UNSW postgraduate students.

Coursework students

Postgraduate Coursework Day

Postgraduate Coursework Day is a workshop held annually early in the year. Topics covered include essay writing and report writing specifically designed for postgraduate coursework students.

Research students

Short courses for postgraduate research students

There are a number of short courses around the uni that cater directly for postgraduate research students. These include: Academic Skills workshops, oral communication workshops, thesis writing and research writing and presentations.
Thesis writing support program for postgraduate research students

The Learning centre offers a thesis writing support program for postgraduate research students who are writing regularly and would like regular feedback on their writing to help them develop their skills.

More support for postgraduate research

Here you can find contacts and support for postgraduate research students.