Please be aware that some exams, such as fully online invigilated exams, may require additional or different rules. Please consult your course outline for specific information about these.

You will be advised on your exam timetable which of the following can be taken into the exam room:

- your UNSW Student ID card. This is mandatory.
- examination materials as specified on myUNSW via your personal exam timetable.
- any textbooks or notes (hard-copy only). For open-book exams, you may bring hard-copy written materials into the exam room. These must be in English unless you have been otherwise directed. This does not include calculators or computers.
- a calculator-UNSW approved. Your calculator must have a 'UNSW approved' label. (See the separate page on approved calculators.)
- a calculator-other. Your calculator must be internally powered, silent and non-programmable with the memory cleared prior to entering the exam room.
- a hand-held computer. This excludes a laptop, notebook, iPad, tablet or similar computer. (See approved calculators.)
