Time management, procrastination and motivation can impact your study.

If you want to get ahead or are experiencing issues with your academic and educational performance such as learning difficulties, poor or disappointing grades, lack of support or disengagement, our Student Support Advisors aim to help students in addressing these issues so they can re-engage with study.

Our services include:

- Assisting students to navigate UNSW policies and procedures in order to obtain special consideration or reviews.
- Providing workshops on exam preparation, assessment planning and presentation skills.
- Helping students to identify academic needs and apply effective strategies for success.

Academic Improvement Module (AIM)

If you are on Referral, Probation, Provisional Suspension or Exclusion, the Academic Improvement Module (AIM) is here to help you to get back on track. This self-paced online module allows you to reflect on your academic experience and identify steps in which you can achieve your academic and career goals.

You can find out more about AIM here or contact Student Academic and Careers Success at sacs@unsw.edu.au.
Contact Student Support Advisors

- Book an appointment with an advisor here.
- Or alternatively you can email an enquiry to advisors@unsw.edu.au

Helpful links

- Academic Standing - What to do if your Academic Standing is not 'Good'
- Special Consideration - How to apply

Academic Improvement Module (AIM)