Nominations for the NSW International Student Awards 2018 are now open!

Published: 4 May 2018

The NSW International Student Awards celebrate the outstanding contribution international students make to communities in NSW and recognise excellence in international student community engagement.

Do you know an international student who is an inspirational role model to the community by:

- Touching the lives of others
- Participating in the community
- Connecting an ethnic or language community group with the broader community
- Volunteer work

UNSW is currently taking nominations for the NSW International Student of the Year Award. All nominations and supporting materials must be submitted via this page. Nominees will go before a UNSW Selection Panel who will determine the UNSW candidate to be put forward for the NSW International Student of the Year Award.

You can also nominate an education provider, business or community group who has run initiatives to connect international students to the wider community for the International Student Community Engagement Awards, directly via the StudySydney website.

Nominating for the Awards provides an opportunity to reward and encourage an individual student or a team that is going ‘above and beyond’.

Applications close Thursday 24 May 2018.
