Here is some important information to help you plan your 2019 course enrolment. This information will help you map out the path to complete your degree in your anticipated time frame.

Please note the course offerings for the 2018-2019 summer term will not be published until mid-August and will be made available here.

This course information is to help you plan your future course enrolments, and acts as a supplement to the UNSW Handbook. It is important that you review the course information because it will help you identify which courses you will need to undertake from 2018 in order to complete your degree on schedule.

The website contains contains:

- A list of courses within Faculties and Schools, and information on when they will be taught in 2019.
- A list of course prerequisites.

What you need to do

1. Visit the website.
2. Download a list of course options available for your faculty and school, this will help you plan which courses you need to take in 2019 to ensure you complete your degree in your anticipated time frame.
3. Ensure you have access to the UNSW Handbook for the year that you commenced your studies at UNSW - this will help you with your degree requirements and course prerequisite rules.

Enrolment for 2019 will open in October 2018.

Support

Please see your regular Faculty Advisors for advice or support.

See next

Full-time study load