Are you a student or jobseeker with disability, or do you know someone who is?

Positive Action towards Career Engagement (PACE Mentoring) connects students and jobseekers with disability with mentors from leading Australian businesses. It gives you an opportunity to develop your skills and confidence in a workplace setting. Previous mentors have come from organisations such as, ANZ Bank, Victoria Police, Bupa, The Attorney Generals Department, and Ashurst.

How it works

You will be paired with an experienced professional who you will meet with six to eight times within a four-month period. The meetings last between one and two hours. You can discuss your career goals and aspirations, and get help to develop a plan for your personal and professional development.

Your Mentor will help you identify and reach your career development goals and build your confidence in a workplace environment. Meetings with your mentor may include:

- Reviewing resume and cover letters
- Mock interviews
- Networking with other professionals
- Building confidence
- Attending events and team meetings.

APPLY HERE before the end of June to be considered for the Spring 2018 cohort of PACE.
